AMERICAN COTTON

GOODS FOR CEYLON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Because one line of American cotton goods is very popular in Ceylon Special Agent Ralph M. Odell, of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, is positive that there is a splendid opportunity to introduce other lines on the island.

The partiality shown by the natives for American grey drills is one of the most interesting features of the cotton goods trade in Ceylon. Attempts to introduce English and Japanese goods of this sort have always failed, for the American goods are well known and dealers say that their quality has always been maintained. The price is admittedly high, but the people seem to be willing to pay for quality so long as the price is within reason.

The success of this line is conclusive proof, Mr. Odell says in his latest report, that American cotton goods can be sold in this part of the world in the face of the most severe competition. It is a question of introducing grades that appeal to the popular fancy and then keeping the quality uniform. Once a grade is well known it is very hard to displace. The suggestion is also made that the American manufacturer take steps to deal direct with importers in Ceylon and not depend on indirect relations through India.

Ceylon purchases a trifle more than $4,000,000 worth of cotton goods from abroad annually, and of this amount the United States furnishes some $750,000 worth. It is not so important a market as the Dutch East Indies or the Straits Settlements, upon which Mr. Odell has previously reported, but it is worth careful attention at this time. Gains made now will be permanent of proper methods are pursued. The largest demand is for gray and white shirtings, and drills, cambrics, lawns, muslin and mulls, sheetings, sarongs and camboys, and prints. American manufacturers are urged to make a special study of these lines, as they offer the best opportunity for satisfactory business.

TO SHOW HOW WAR SHORTAGES ARE FRUSTRATED

By United Press.

New York, Sept. 25.—How raw materials from the big forests of the southern states and from other parts of the country are saving the United States from "war shortage" of dyes, acids, pulps and other materials, is being shown at the national convention of American scientists which began here today. The American Chemical, American Electro-Chemical, Engineering Society of Chemical Industry, and other scientific societies with thousands of scientists for members, are meeting under the leadership of President Dr. Charles H. Herty of the American society.

"Our exhibits here today," said Dr. Herty, "show how the big timber regions of the south are being developed to supply alcohol, dyes, acids and paper pulps on a gigantic scale. We have depended on Europe for much of these things heretofore, but the development of our own natural resources is merely a matter of chemical engineering."

"One exhibit shows how we saved ourselves from a return to gas lighting, when Germany cut off our supply of potash for glass making, by substituting soda, of which we have plenty."

"We are showing our scientists and inventors have not only equalled but excelled the heretofore unrivalled Germans in the manufacture of delicate lenses, also how American made porcelain has been improved and is better now than the exquisite imported ever were."

4,000 AMERICAN BANKERS

IN CONVENTION

By United Press.
Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 25.—Four thousand leading bankers of the nation gathered here today for the annual meeting of the American Bankers' association.

Prominent among the subjects to be discussed is our financial, commercial and social relations with South America. President Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank of New York, who has been one of the most active men in the promotion of friendly relations with South America, will dwell upon the subject in his speech.

Among the other well known speakers who will be heard during the convention week are Joseph Chapman, vice president of the Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis, and Joseph Hirsch, vice president of the Corpus Christi National bank, Corpus Christi, Texas.

A series of dinners, luncheons, teas, motor rides, theater parties and the like are planned in honor of the wives of the bankers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Johnson left last night for Kansas City to attend the bankers convention.

Bradford Newman, F. C. Hall, C. R. Phillips and Dr. Leeds motored to Oklahoma City yesterday.

REPUBLICANS OPEN THEIR CAMPAIGN

ing market. That is one of the perils of any nation or community. A falling market should only be created by natural causes, and not by legislation. A drought causes huge decreases in crops but there is compensation in the increased prices, and vice versa.

"During the eight months preceding the war," the speaker continued, "the American farmer lost enough through the falling prices of their 24,000,000 horses to pay for the Panama canal. That same canal could have been paid for in the fall in prices of other products. The Democratic party in their declaration of principles, contends that the enactment of the tariff law was made imperative because of farm products being largely exported into free trade countries. He then quoted figures to show that most of the exports from the farm were less than $1 on the $100 and of the barley crop, the greatest item of exportation, over 94 per cent stayed at home."

As a result of the tariff law, he said prior to the great war 3,000,000 working people in the United States were idle, among these being 500,000 railroad men.

Col. Rankins then reviewed the making of raw materials which go on the free list, showing that in many cases, such as that of pig iron, the raw material for one branch of industry is the finished product of another.

"The Republican party in its sixty years of wise administration," he said, "gave us a rich and powerful country in which workingmen became millionaires and poor boys rose to distinction. Sixty years before Woodrow Wilson became president the Democrats had only had four years of power, the second term of the Cleveland administration and who has known of the Democratic party in any instance having endorsed the Cleveland administration?"

Referring to a statement that a protective tariff was unconstitutional, the speaker asserted that the first such legislation was promulgated by Washington and Madison with the makers of the constitution as their advisers and co-laborers.

ENCAMPMENT AT STATE FAIR VALUABLE INSTRUCTION PROJECT

THREE HUNDRED TEXAS FARM BOYS AND GIRLS ARE TO PARTICIPATE IN IT

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE IS INTERESTED

W. H. Stratton, Secretary.

The monster Educational Encampment for Texas Farm Boys and Girls, to be held in connection with the 1916 State Fair of Texas, October 14 to 29, will undoubtedly prove to be one of the most interesting features of this year's State Fair. At the same time, the educational influence thus wielded will confer a distinct benefit upon three hundred boys and girls of the State.

All necessary plans and arrangements have been concluded by the Fair management in co-operation with the State Agricultural and Mechanical College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and it is stated that in detail will be lacking to insure the complete success of this movement.

W. H. Stratton, secretary of the State Fair of Texas, announced recently that three hundred scholarships in his encampment would be available—two hundred for boys and one hundred for girls, and that these scholarships would be awarded, upon a competitive basis, to the boys of the Boys' Agricultural Clubs, and the girls of the Girls' Canning Clubs, who make the best records in their club work during 1916. Secretary Stratton also stated that these scholarships would give the successful contestants an entire week at the Fair with all expenses paid, and that he would be glad to send a descriptive booklet concerning the Encampment to any boy or girl who would like to enter the competition.
